A police official said Kulu Police arrested a 45-year-old man on Saturday who had allegedly raped a 10-year-old school girl in a moving car. The accused who is a resident of Kansal village in Kulu district is a chief medical officer in a primary health centre in the same village. On the night of August 5, the accused had taken the girl to his house after she got tired waiting at the hospital for some time. The accused had taken the girl and her school bag to his clinic and said that the doctor would give her treatment. After examining the girl, the accused took her to the driver's cabin of his vehicle along with her school bag. The girl was sexually assaulted by the accused before he drove to Dharan, about 50 kilometres from the village. A police team swung into action and arrested the accused. The team is
