with JG: Slightly Flawed Day-To-Day Overview Last Memory reminded me of the terrible timing on the way this product was initially unveiled. It reminded me that a product that is so visually stunning is frequently teased to get your attention before trying to overwhelm you. Maybe that's why before trying all of the products, I was reminded a bit of Last Memory. I missed the visuals, the powerful impression it made. You can really appreciate it. But once you experience a layer of it, the saltiness or bitterness takes over and that's it. It's done. For someone who wants to keep building a collection like the pros that we all were at one time, that's a bit frustrating at this point. What we have here is two products that happen to compliment each other perfectly. That's how I like to approach my collection. I'm confident I can still find enough value with the months ahead and am ready to start hunting again. It's a day-to-day thing for me. But for a certain type of collector, that doesn't work. I don't know why I didn't think of the comparison at the time it was presented. Perhaps the timing just didn't work out as well as it could have. Maybe it's because the products just don't fit my typical needs, so it was easy for me to overlook. Everything is really close to perfect for the guy I am (most) of the time. If you are someone who just wants a chunk of old-school, versus spending all of your energy searching for a single product like me, then I imagine you miss the imagery, because there's a sharp risk that you'll miss out on other whole stories. All I really know is for me, this is it. And it's plenty. When touched, they feel real and like a unique material. Then they have a feeling of wetness, sweat and high salt content. It feels like silk. This is a little bit of a technical piece. There's a name for this application of sea salt. I'm not sure how often I will touch them, because I don't want to remove any of the saltiness, so I Kittypocalypse is a tiny VR app designed to give you an immersive view of the bloody carnage in the Dark Souls videos. INTRODUCTION Kittypocalypse aims to do the following: You play as a Zombie. You fight other Pokemon while dodging the devastating attacks of a group of feral Kittypuns. You get 10 minutes to clear the game. Each level has 6 Kittypuns; giving you a chance to clear each one and clear the game. After every new set of levels, there is an “Ice Pick Event”. After this event, your Pokemon are “Stronger”. If the Ice Pick Event is triggered too much, your Pokemon will start “Thinning” and weaker versions will be shown. At the end of every Ice Pick Event, the Kittypuns get “Vicious” and a lava will rise up. If you die on the lava, you get a “Dark Stack” and your local Pokemon will show up in your Dark Stack. The end of the Dark Stack, is the point at which your Pokemon will die. TRIVIA Kittypocalypse is a French title. Kittypocalypse is named after a fan theory that suggests that the dead Kittypuns leave behind a dark residue that is “punctuated” by a heat wave in the game. The concept originated from a meme about The Witcher S1E1, as the show generally has a death scene for every episode. Kittypocalypse is the French equivalent of the English word Snipe.
